

International Business Leader in specialty materials and ingredients, Senior Corporate B2B Marketing Fellow and Six Sigma Black Belt Project Leader, Clara Millard-Dereudre brings solid experience and track record successful leadership across industries, value chains, stakeholders, geographies and cultures.

In her last role a Global Senior Director Marketing, Strategy and Sustainability of the Dow Industrial Solutions business of The Dow Chemical Company (Dow), Clara led strategy development programs and global marketing and sustainability initiatives for a $5 billion business. She led a global team responsible for the development and implementation of business strategy, including market portfolio management, market-driven Innovation and sustainability transformation.

Clara started her Dow career in 1994 in Paris, France, as a key account manager. Between then and 2010, she held many commercial leadership roles in Europe for performance chemicals, construction materials, and specialty health and wellness products. In September 2010, Clara moved to Indianapolis, USA, and joined Dow AgroSciences as Strategy Acceleration & Productivity leader while achieving her Six Sigma black belt certification. In 2011, she was named Business & Customer Services Director for Dow AgroSciences North America. In 2014 she served as Global Corporate Strategic Development Director for Dow AgroSciences.

Clara served diversity and inclusion networks as chair of the Dow AgroSciences Women's Innovation Network and Dow Disability Employee Network. She currently supports social impact projects for textile in Ethiopia and competences development towards a sustainable development.

She holds a degree from the EDHEC Business School in France, and an executive MBA in Leadership and Macroeconomics from Northwood University in Michigan (2010) as well as IESE Barcelona (2017). She recently certified with Cambridge Institute for Sustainability leadership, ISO26000 Corporate Social Responsibility and INSEAD Social Entrepreneur Program. She places great value in engaging with diverse individuals to have a greater impact in their careers and communities. She lives and leads by a strong set of ethics that includes a passion for sustainability in business, and she proudly raises two young daughters to hold these principles.